A Merry Christmas

The Yuletide is with us again and we wish to join innumerable hosts who say Merry Christmas. But these very names betray its pagan-Christian origin. And the facts in life better illustrate the power of transformation than the story of Christmas.

Among northern peoples, the winter solstice was a time of dread. What if the sun should not become strong again and spring and summer not return? And this dread often expressed itself in the crudest forms of worship.

With the coming of Christianity these pagan practices had to cease. But what a void they left in the individual and social life of the people! It would seem that more than the negro Methodists believed in backsliding. Each return of the season brought the voice, "Remember the good old days, Return to the faith of your fathers."

And it took modern missionaries some time to learn the discovery of those ancient pioneers of the faith. They said why not let us celebrate this ancient feat but make it Christian.

On reliable tradition we are told that the first Passover after the Crucifixion was a very anxious and exciting time for those first Christians. At this feast they expected Jesus to return on the clouds and establish His temporal kingdom. And it seemed most logical. Then with each return of the feast they waited expectantly. Thus from the earliest days, Easter was observed and its associations were wholly Christian although the Jewish Passover occurred at the same season.

But it was the contact with heathenism that led the church to celebrate the birth of Christ. Its childhood associations were just what was needed to offset the hoary orgies. During those early days the struggle must have been marked by many lapses. Lovely customs, such as the exchange of gifts which marked the Roman Saturnalia, were preserved and gradually the uncouth and the terrible were supplanted.

But the process has not been completed. Our Christmases have been marked by heathen traits even in this twentieth century. Dr. Jowett tells us that after one of the sieges of Antwerp the cannon balls were melted into bells. What a transformation, and a Christmas one at that! And to join that company who are trying to supplant pagan practices with Christian virtues, can bring to us but one result, namely a more

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

My order for Christmas?

Oh, yes, it is billed—

I hope every item

Is carefully filled.

It is quite a jumble

I really admit,

For when one is started

Who knows where to quit.

A snowstorm I ordered,

With sleds, skates and toys—

A houseful of cousins,

Aunts, uncles—and noise.

Roast turkey and holly,

And greetings most gay—

With the spirit of Christmas

To hallow the day.

Co-operation between Canada's two great railway companies registered an important advance recently when it was officially announced that an agreement had been reached whereby the Canadian National will co-operate with the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian Pacific Steamships in the solicitation of freight, passenger and express traffic for Canadian Pacific ships to and from Canadian Atlantic ports. You Should Know

You should know certain things so that you may be able to act in such a manner as to protect your own health and that of your family. The success which has been achieved in controlling diseases is not the result of chance. It has come about as the result of our having acquired enough knowledge about these particular diseases to enable us to overcome them to some extent.

In the same way, personal health and freedom from disease come to us when we make use of the knowledge which we now possess. Smallpox is non-existent when vaccination is practised. Rickets disappear as the result of proper feeding. Pure water and safe milk prevent the occurrence of typhoid fever.

You should know that each year, in Canada, over eight thousand persons die from tuberculosis. You should know that when it is discovered early and properly treated, tuberculosis is one of the most curable of diseases.

Knowing these two statements to be correct, you are then in a position to say that the large number of deaths must be due to failure in discovering the disease in its early stages, or that the cases are not being properly treated.

Those of our readers who follow our advice and have a health examination each year give their family physician an opportunity to discover tuberculosis, cancer and other diseases in their earliest and most curable age.

It is not possible to teach the public how to detect diseases early. It is much more difficult to make a diagnosis in the early stage of a disease than it is later on. The general idea of a tuberculous person is one who is thin, looks ill and has a cough. This is the usual condition when the disease is advanced, but in the early stages, the patient appears to be well, and nothing in his general appearance arouses suspicion.

Not everyone with the following symptoms has tuberculosis but the presence of one or more of them is sufficient to arouse suspicion and to send the individual to his doctor to find out the cause.

A feeling of fatigue from work which did not previously cause fatigue.

Loss of strength or weight which may be accompanied by a general feeling of not being well.

Any cough which persists for a month or more.

Continued upset of digestion which may be associated with a cough.

Spitting of blood,

It is better to be on the safe side. Prompt attention to early symptoms means early treatment if it is needed, and early treatment means cure.

Holly Berry Beliefs

As far back as the fifth century Christmas invested holly branches with a symbolism that helped to keep sacred memories alive. The crimson berries symbolized the blood shed on Calvary by the Founder of the Christian religion; the prickly leaves held remembrances of the crown of thorns; and the bitterness of the holly bark was symbolic of the draught of wine which Christ partook while hanging on the cross.

Once, in fact, there was a custom of making a decoction from the bark, and drinking it in the midst of the Christmas celebrations, so that—in the words of an old writer—'Ye shall not forget the cross as ye rejoice in the manger.'

Holiday Greetings

The hallowed spirit of Christmas has come down through time and the ages, spreading its message of brotherly love, filling our hearts with untold happiness and singing the sweet refrain of

"Peace on Earth, Good Will towards men"

This gives us an appropriate opportunity to tell you how sincerely we appreciate your business and your friendship.

May this same Spirit of Christmas abide with each one of you in full measure this Christmas day, bringing contentment, health and prosperity throughout 1932.

Shouldice News

The dance at Shouldice on Dec. 11th. was another pleasing event, though the crowd was comparatively small. Everyone was very sociable and it is hoped that the next occasion will be favored with fair weather and permit all the usual supporters to turn out, with no fear that their car will freeze up or get snow-bound. Watch for next announcement.

The Shouldice Community Hall was the scene of a very enjoyable concert and Christmas tree on Monday evening. The hall was tastefully and appropriately decorated.

The teacher, Mr. Mowat, had reserved no effort in the preparation of the numbers.

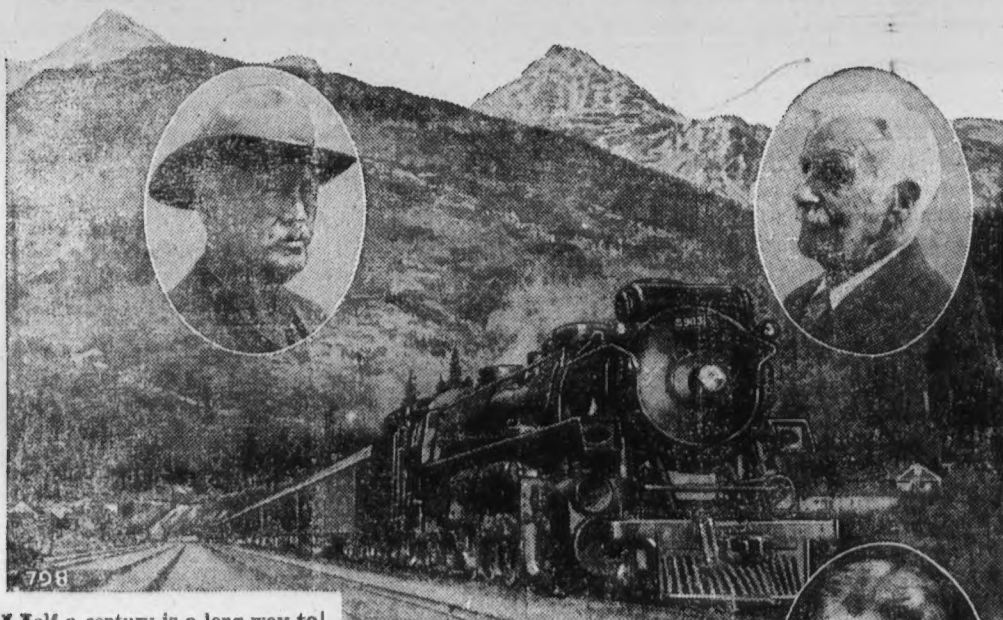

There was a nice crowd in attendance and after the singing of O Canada, Mr. Edwards made a very suitable address. Then, for one hour and forty-five minutes everyone listened very attentively to the program.

Santa Claus distributed the various presents when he arrived and when all had shared the nuts, candy, etc., the evening, with the children well satisfied and happy.

There are warmer hand shakings on this night than during the past twelve months. Friendliness within the mind of friendliness is more charity at this time than at any other. Poverty and scanty clothing, and fireless grates come home to the bosom of rich, and they give of their abundance. For at least one night in each year there is brotherhood. And good men sitting amongst their families, or by a solitary fire, like the editor, when they remember the light that shone over the shepherd budding on the Bethlehem plains eighteen hundred years ago, and apparition of shining angels overhead, the song "Peace on earth good will towards men," which for the first time hallowed the midnight air, pray for the strains fulfillment, that battle and strife may vex the nations no more, that not only on Christmas-Eve, but the whole year round men shall be brethren owing one Father in Heaven.

PIONEERS MEET AFTER HALF CENTURY

Half a century is a long way to look back and when Charlie Shaw (right) met Tom Wilson in the grounds of the Banff Springs Hotel last autumn, it was an occasion for both of them. Tom is a well-known character at the famous Rocky Mountain resort. He is the sole survivor of the Canadian Pacific's first exploration party of 1881, and was the first white man to see Lake Louise. Shaw, who makes his home in Keremos, B.C., is the sole survivor of the survey party under C. E. Perry, C.E., which located the line across the Alberta prairies. The pair met, for the only time in their lives till 1931, in 1883, when Tom was working under Major A. B. Rogers, for whom Rogers Pass is named and Charlie was with Sir Sanford Fleming's memorable expedition through the Kicking Horse Pass. What this gallant pair of veterans must have had to say to each other when they renewed their acquaintance! From the days when they toiled over mountain and plain, blazing the way for the great steel girdle which now binds the provinces of the Dominion together, down to the present day, is history. Their cheery determination has been, and is, reflected in the story of the world's greatest transportation system. The mantle of responsibility has passed from Mount Stephen to Van Horne and from Shaughnessy to the broad shoulders of E.W. Peatty, chairman and president of the system. Many progressive improvements have been made. But the spirit which sent Tom and Charlie across hundreds of miles of unexplored territory remains unchanged, for the excellent reason that none better can be found.

Twelve hundred colonies of screened bees and their accompanying queens from the Province of Alberta to China was the unique feature of the Canadian export trade to the Orient and of the shipments aboard the Empress of Russia recently. The European and American bee produces nearly twice as much honey as its Asiatic brother that has been exploited by the Chinese since the time of Confucius. (C-9)
